

B. R. Ambedkar

(Date of Birth: 14 April 1891)

(Date of Death: 6 December 1956)

Bhimrao Ambedkar (1891–1956) was a prominent Indian jurist, economist, social reformer, and political leader. He chaired the committee that drafted the Indian Constitution and served as the first Law and Justice Minister under the cabinet of Jawaharlal Nehru.

A key figure in advocating for Dalit rights, he converted to Buddhism in 1956, initiating the Dalit Buddhist movement. Ambedkar completed his education in Columbia University and the London School of Economics, earning doctorates in economics and law. He is honored with the title "Babasaheb" and the slogan "Jai Bhim" by his followers. Posthumously awarded the Bharat Ratna in 1990, he remains a major influence in Indian society and politics.
